THE MORNING NEWS

WASHINGTON.

A New Sugar Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The representatives of the Louisiana sugar interest and of the refiners who are not in the Havemeyer combination have agreed upon a new sugar bill, which was introduced by Mr. Gibson of Louisiana yesterday. It provides that the Secretary of the Treasury shall select proper Dutch standards of sugar, and cause the saccharine strength to be ascertained, and when ascertained to declare it, and that when this strength is ascertained the duty shall be collected according to the color. It is not known whether those who have been such strenuous supporters of the existing Dutch standard will approve of this change in the existing law.

Legislation in the House.

The expectation is that the House will pass the general award bill Friday, though the insurance companies do not like it, and are at work against its provisions. Following action on this bill, the Crapo bill to extend the charters of national banks will come before the House as a special order, and will have precedence, except in the case of appropriation bills, till disposed of. There are some who think a vote can be reached on Saturday, but there are numbers of Democrats who insist upon having a chance to attack the bill.

Peaceful Disposition of the Brule Indians.

Inspector Gardner, in a report to the Indian Bureau from the Rosebud Indian agency in Dakota, says that at a council held there, many of the Brule-Sioux surrendered their arms to the number of 200 pieces. The surrender was voluntary, the Indians requesting that the arms be sold and the proceeds applied for the benefit of the tribe. Indian Agent Llewellyn, of the Mescalero agency, positively denies the reports that the Indians are leaving his reservation to go on the warpath.

Army Matters in Congress.

The House committee on military affairs today decided to report to the House, with a favorable recommendation, Representative Beach's bill, making a retired list for non-commissioned officers of the United States army who have served therein continuously, honorably and faithfully, for a period of thirty years or upwards. Favorable reports were also directed to be made on bills, as follows:—Fixing the pay of hospital stewards at $34 per month; allowing officers detailed on military courts reimbursements for hotel and other necessary expenses; granting the use of tents to the reunion of the Illinois Veteran Association, and several bills donating condemned cannon to associations in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Mrs. Mason Appeals to the President.

Mrs. Betsy Mason, wife of Sergeant Mason, had an interview with the President this afternoon, and made a strong personal appeal for her husband's release from the Albany penitentiary. The President stated to Mrs. Mason that he had great sympathy for her, and that the petitions for the pardon of her husband would be laid before the Cabinet. Mrs. Mason was very much affected by the President's words, and was so overcome with emotion that she could not speak, and her friend, Mrs. Mary Shannon, spoke for her. The general impression is that Mason's sentence will be mitigated in a short time.

The River and Harbor Bill.

The river and harbor bill will be reported to the House Friday. Exclusive of six millions of dollars which it appropriated to carry out the plans of the Mississippi river commission, the aggregate amount appropriated will be about $10,500,000.

FOREIGN.

Irish Matters.

DUBLIN, May 11. Disappointment is generally expressed at the failure of the police to discover anything important concerning the identity of the assassins, and the feeling is growing that they have escaped.

LONDON, May 11.—In the House of Commons, this evening, Sir William Harcourt, the home secretary, introduced a bill for the repression of crime in Ireland.

The Egyptian Situation.

LONDON, May 11.—A despatch from Cairo reports that the relations between the Egyptian ministry and the English and French comptrollers general have been ruptured. The latter abstained from attending the ordinary Cabinet Council last night, although they have as yet received no instructions from their respective governments as to the attitudes they should assume. It is believed the ministers are reckoning upon the impossibility of an understanding between the Powers and the Porte. They are confident the chamber of notables they have summoned will fully approve their action. This, however, is doubted in diplomatic circles unless the notables are intimidated by the army. It is stated the ministers have now changed front and intend to ask the chamber of notables to petition the Porte to remove the khedive on the ground that he is incapable of governing.

Passage of the Repression Act.

LONDON, May 12.—The House by a vote of 327 to 22 passed the repression bill to its first reading. The minority was composed entirely of Home Rulers. The feeling in the lobby of the House is that the repression bill fairly meets the grave issues raised by the crime of Saturday, but it is thought certain that the stringency of the provisions will alienate the Irish vote. A meeting of the Irish party will be held today to consider the subject.

Notes.

The colliers brought out from Scotland last week to take the place of the men on a strike at the Cape Breton coal mines, immediately on their arrival were met by deputations of strikers and induced to join the union. Matters therefore are not improved in the least.

There are seven thousand Jewish refugees in Brody, Austria. About 200 arrive there every day, while only 500 leave weekly. Their misery is indescribable.

A series of huge fires are reported in Southeast Russia. The loss of property is enormous and the distress extreme.

John Brown, M. D., of Edinburgh, the well-known author, is dead.

Condensed Telegrams.

No less than eight vessels have gone ashore or been badly damaged on the west coast of Lake Michigan during the prevailing northeaster.

Base ball yesterday—At Boston—Boston 5; Providence 1. At Worcester—Troy 4; Worcester 0. The games at Detroit and Chicago were postponed on account of the rain.

Further reports from the McAllister, I. T., cyclone swell the number of victims to fourteen. Physicians and nurses have been sent and an appeal is made to the state of Texas for aid in caring for the wounded.

Lydia Butler, aged 41 years, unmarried, of Lawrence, Mass., has been missing from her boarding-house since Sunday evening. It is believed she has committed suicide by drowning, as she has acted strangely of late.

The Boston and Albany Railroad Company has given notice that 25 per cent. of the force employed in its shops in Springfield, Mass., and at Boston and at Albany, will be discharged next week on account of the dullness in freight transportation.

The elevator of the Franklin mills in Franklin Falls, N. H., fell from the fifth story to the basement this afternoon, with three men. John Raynor had a leg badly broken and otherwise injured. Hiram Shaw and Frank Kellogg were injured internally and badly bruised.

Jackson Port, Ark., on the White river, is three feet under water and the river is still rising. Heavy rains caused a washout on the Charleston railroad at Muddy Creek, twenty-five miles east of Memphis, and water covers the track for three miles. All through travel is suspended.

Colonel Forsythe states that he had a conversation with a daughter of Chief Loco, who informed him that thirteen Indians had been killed in a fight at Stein's Peak with Forsythe. The latter had only claimed two killed. Forsythe states that but thirty or forty bucks are believed to have escaped with Loco from the encounter with Garcia. He inclines to the belief that Garcia would not retain the thirty-three prisoners he had captured but they would be duly passed into the happy hunting ground.

While entering the German Exchange Bank in New York last Saturday a messenger boy for the Mechanics National Bank was robbed by some adroit pickpockets of checks, drafts and notes amounting to $48,000, besides a number of interest coupons of railroad bonds. While attempting to cash some of the stolen coupons at the New York Central railroad office John Bowen, of Bayonne, N. J., and Arthur Young, of New York were arrested. Young implicated one Alexander Donaldson, and he was also arrested. The prisoners were arraigned Thursday afternoon and remanded.

One of the most significant commentaries upon the extravagant prices charged for meat in this country, is found in the fact that large quantities of this staple food which had been exported to Europe, have been brought back and sold at a profit of half a cent a pound above the original cost and the payment of freight across the ocean and return. How much the profit would have been without these transportation charges for six thousand miles, is not stated but may be imagined.

Piles! Piles!! Piles!! No One Need Suffer.

A sure cure for blind, bleeding, itching and ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. Williams (an Indian remedy), called Dr. Williams's Indian Pile Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 years' standing. No one will suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. WILLIAMS'S INDIAN PILE OINTMENT absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching (particularly at night after getting warm in bed), acts as a poultice; gives instant relief, and is prepared ONLY FOR PILES, itching of the private parts and nothing else.

Read what Hon. Judge Collinbury, of Cleveland, says: "I have used scores of pile cures, and it affords me pleasure to say that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. Williams's Indian Pile Ointment.

Eighteen hundred persons were present, including M. Gambetta and many Senators and deputies.

.....The first seaman accepted by the officers of the Jeannette for the Arctic search expedition was Henry Diamond Warren, of Philadelphia, who is supposed to have perished with the rest of the crew. Warren was born in Bristol, R. I., in 1850. In 1866 his family removed to Philadelphia. Since the age of fifteen he had been a seaman, shipping first in a whaler to the Arctic regions from New Bedford.

.....Chief Engineer George W. Melville, who is making the hazardous and almost hopeless search for the missing boat and party of the Jeannette under command of Lieutenant Chipps, is a man of very striking appearance. He is a heavily-built man, weighing about 190 pounds, and is about five feet eleven inches in height. Of large and powerful frame, he is of light complexion, and has bright, piercing blue eyes. He is supple and a skilled athlete.

.....Prominent lawyers in New York and members of the judiciary participated in a farewell reception tendered at the rooms of the Bar Association Thursday, to Judge Samuel Blatchford, recently appointed associate judge of the United States Supreme Court. Ex-Secretary William M. Evarts delivered the congratulatory address, which was feelingly responded to by Judge Blatchford. Chief Justice Waite was among those congratulating the new appointee.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

The White House under the present administration is truly a place of business, and is run on thorough business principles. President Arthur has set apart certain days of the week for special purposes, and all the employés know that nothing can be allowed to interfere with the regular work for each day. One day in each week the President has reserved for himself. Few people realize the constant strain to which the President is subjected. It is absolutely necessary that he should have some relief from the pressure that is brought to bear upon him from morning till midnight. President Garfield gave himself day and night to the duties of his office, and the constraint on his nerves and strength told upon him very apparently even in the short time that he held the office.

At first, Saturday was the day chosen by President Arthur when he should seclude himself from the crowd of sight-seers and business callers who daily besiege the White House, but as that day is the one when Senators and Representatives are most at leisure to look after affairs which necessitate a call upon the President (both houses of Congress usually adjourning over that day), he decided upon Monday as "his" day. Tuesdays and Fridays have long been "cabinet days." Members of Congress, however, are received on these days from 10 to 12 o'clock. The latter hour is the time for the regular cabinet meeting. Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays are what are known as business days, when those who have business affairs to lay before the President, or who merely wish to see him and shake him by the hand, are received from 11 till 1 o'clock.

The President generally breakfasts about 9.30 o'clock, lunches at 2, if the pressure of business allows him, and dines at 7.30 o'clock. About 4 o'clock he goes out driving. During the evening he almost always has a number of callers, either personal friends or officials, with whom he has appointments. When the last caller has departed, the President usually devotes several hours to matters which he has set aside to be considered at this time, or which have been crowded over during the press of the day. It is at this time that a decision is reached on many matters of weight, including frequently important appointments. The rules which have been laid down in the White House are not deviated from except in case of special appointment. In fact, business is done somewhat as it was under the Jackson and Grant régimes.

It will be remembered that President Garfield's private secretary, Mr. J. Stanley Brown, acted in the same capacity for President Arthur for a time. Owing to the request of Mrs. Garfield that he should take charge of and arrange certain papers with a view to their use in the biography of the late President, he was obliged to sever his connection with the White House. On the 1st of January Fred J. Phillips, a personal friend of President Arthur, succeeded Mr. Brown. Although President Arthur has a much smaller force of assistants than his predecessors, the work at the executive mansion is despatched with remarkable promptness and accuracy. This is owing more, perhaps, to the signal abilities of Mr. Phillips than to anything else, who is a thorough man of business.

The President's door-keeper, Charles Loeffler, knows every person of any prominence. He never forgets a face. He is daily pressed by crowds of people desirous of audience, but he knows how to discriminate, and his phlegmatic temperament keeps him level-headed. He came with General Grant. Arthur Simmons has been the door-keeper of the private secretary's office since 1866, and he is likely to remain there for a good many years. Edgar Beckley, door-keeper of the reception room, came with Gen. Grant.

There are several messengers connected with the office. The President's two mounted messengers, James Sheridan and Thomas Dolan, are daily seen driving through the streets. Albert, the driver, and Jerry, the footman, must not be forgotten. They were well known under Gen. Grant's administration, when they looked well behind a fine team. They didn't seem to take much pride in President Hayes's turnout. It is very doubtful if President Arthur, who has a turnout befitting a President, will allow his driver to hold the reins in one hand and a large umbrella in the other.

There is one man about the White House authorized to make arrests, Sergt. Dinsmore. Two other policemen are on duty at night. A police officer was first placed on duty there in 1864. It will be remembered that then President Lincoln's assassination was threatened. A reward of $100,000 was offered in a Mississippi paper for his head. An officer was detailed for duty then at the White House, and one has been kept there ever since. Very little of Sergt. Dinsmore's time is occupied with police duty, however. He and the ushers, Messrs. Thomas F. Pendle, who came with Lincoln, and J. T. Rickard, have about as much as they can attend to in receiving callers and showing what can be seen and answering innumerable questions.—[Washington Star.

MASSACHUSETTS POLITICS.

There is likely to be a shaking up in Massachusets Republicanism this year and the most unexpected combinations and results are foreshadowed from it. The nomination of Worthington for the Boston collectorship continues to hang in the Senate, and it is apprehended that if he is rejected the Stalwarts will pool issues with the Democrats in support of General Butler for governor with the ultimate view of putting him into Hoar's seat in the United States Senate. To avert this danger Colonel Haskell, of the Republican state committee, is in Washington trying to crystallize a movement in favor of ex-Attorney General Devens, who is now on the bench. It is reasoned that the candidacy of Devens would retire Hoar without the danger of Democratic ascendency involved in the advancement of Butler, and the case is sufficiently urgent to enlist every energy to consummate this result.—[Philadelphia Times.

The Newport Journal is published at the same office every Saturday morning and contains a selection of the best matter in the Daily, including editorial discussions of the topics of the week, literary miscellanies and at least one good story, and a complete and comprehensive summary of news—local and general. The Journal is a large 36-column paper and contains a large amount of reading matter that is valuable to readers in town or country who desire a good Newport paper, but who do not take a daily from the city.

Complaints regarding the irregular or improper delivery of either paper should be sent to the office at once.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

The Daily News, $6 per annum, or 12 cents a week payable to carrier.

The Newport Journal will be sent to any address in the United States, postage paid, for $2 a year. A discount of 50 cents is made when the whole year is paid strictly in advance. These terms are invariable.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Ordinary advertisements, $1 a square, for the first insertion, and 25 cents for each continuance. Ten lines, or less, in this type, make a square. Advertisements in reading matter are charged for, at 50 per cent. extra and are subject to editorial revision. A discount on these rates is allowed on all advertisements ordered in the Daily for one week or longer.

Notices of births, marriages and funerals 50 cents each.

Yearly advertisers are limited to their immediate business, are guaranteed but five insertions in a week and are allowed twenty-five changes a year.

The circulations of the News and Journal being necessarily distinct, an advertisement inserted in both papers will reach entirely different sets of readers. As further inducement for advertisers to use both News and Journal, a liberal discount on the combined rates is made.

PRINTING.

The News has four steam presses and is a large and well appointed job printing office. All orders for work in this department will be promptly filled, and at reasonable prices. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited.

And we are to have the electric light.

All the Cliff cottages are let for the season.

There was a $10,000 fire in a Fall River lumber yard yesterday.

The late musical festival in New York, is said to have been a failure financially.

Four hundred and sixty-two agrarian outrages were committed in Ireland during the month of April.

William H. Durfee was sentenced this morning by the court to six years' hard labor in the State Prison.

The river and harbor bill, which is to be presented to Congress today, asks for the appropriation of $10,500,000.

The Republicans of the national House are determined to press the consideration of the contested election cases. Yesterday the committee on elections agreed to the report in favor of seating Mr. William M. Lowe, the contestant of Lowe vs. Wheeler, from the eighth Congressional district of Alabama.

Numerous arrests have been made in Ireland of persons who are suspected of being the murderers of Lord Cavendish and Thomas Burke, but as yet no conclusive evidence has been brought against any of the suspected parties. The excitement still continues and the police are on the watch for the assassins.

General James A. Beaver, the Republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania, is as good a man for the position as can be found in the Keystone state. He was a brave soldier and is everywhere recognized as an upright and honorable man. General Beaver was nominated by acclamation and should be elected by a rousing majority.

Mrs. Sergeant Mason called on the President yesterday and asked him for a mitigation of the sentence of her husband. The President told her that he would present the case to the Cabinet at its next meeting and Mrs. Mason came away feeling confident that her husband would be released. She does not expect him to be reinstated in the army and hopes he will not be. She wants him herself.

Our school board has what is known as the "text book committee." If the remark of the Philadelphia Times is correct it will not be wanted in the future. Says the Times:—"Text-books, and the habit they promote of learning and of teaching by rote, are the curse of our schools, private as well as public. In the ideal school, the teacher gives the instruction, or directs the scholar where to find it, and one book of reasonable accuracy will serve as well as another to supply the necessary details. We are a long way off from the ideal and are not likely to attain it, but the nearer we get to it the less importance we shall ascribe to school books."

Office sometimes seeks the man and seeks in vain. There is so strong a feeling in Maine in favor of Mr. Blaine's running for Congress that petitions are circulating asking him to be a candidate. He will probably not accept the invitation, having an eye to the main chance, and having been taught to look upward. And yet if there is a place anywhere in politics for James A. Blaine it is in the House of Representatives.

We have not heard an Irishman in this city speak otherwise than in strong condemnation of the assassination of Cavendish and Burke. Rev. Dr. Grace remarked that Gladstone was Ireland's best friend among English statesmen, and the Gladstone administration should have encouragement and support. Other intelligent men take the same view of the situation, and history will doubtless establish it as correct beyond doubt. There is hope for Ireland, but only in the ways of peace.

Boston has voted to hire $1,500,000 for sewerage purposes. It seems a large sum, but it is a wiser outlay than to spend driblets in a way that leaves the work to be done over at an early day, after the manner of our Newport city fathers. Our city has wasted a large sum of money in its hap-hazard ventures in sewerage, where a large part of the work will have to be done over whenever a plan is adopted. In some streets sewers have already been built the second time, and the present ones will not abide the coming tests.

The greater portion of Thursday's session of the Senate was occupied in discussing the intermediate appellate court bills. It was unanimously agreed at the conclusion of the day's debate that a final vote should be taken today. The conference report on the Indian appropriation bill was submitted, concurred in, and the bill passed. In the House a bill was introduced providing for an annual appropriation of $10,000,000 for the next five years to aid in the support of free common schools throughout the country. The Geneva award bill was discussed at length and the previous question thereon ordered; pending a vote, however, an adjournment was carried.

The City Council last evening gave the contract for lighting our public parks and Bellevue avenue with electric lights, to the New England Weston Electric Light Company. The lights will be in operation for the coming fourth of July. The terms of the contract are very favorable to Newport's interests, and if the contract is carried out, as no doubt it will be, we ought to be more than satisfied with the change. As usual in all our greatest modern improvements General Burdick has fought hard from beginning to end and now that he has been successful in obtaining this latest innovation, he ought to be, and doubtless is, a happy man. Newport owes a great deal to Mr. Burdick's enthusiasm.

IRELAND'S CALAMITY.

As was feared Ireland is made to suffer for the misdeeds of her assassins and murderers. The new measures of repression are severe and may be regarded as oppressive. The English statesmen regard the situation so critical that they feel it necessary to resort to extreme measures. While they do not charge the recent murders on the leaders in the Land League movement they declare that such is the unrest of the masses, and the disposition towards outrage and murder that soft words, such as they had begun to utter, will no longer answer.

The position of the government was set forth in Parliament last evening when Sir William Harcourt in the absence of Gladstone set forth the new policy. According to the cablegram Sir William began by stating that the government had considered the question of instituting a military tribunal, but had come to the conclusion that to resort to such a measure was undesirable. There was ample testimony that the heart of Ireland was sound, but Ireland was suffering from the bane of secret societies. He characterized the prevalence of crime there as a national disgrace. He said the time has arrived for the entire House to unite in taking steps to repress it. The case we deplore today is not a solitary one. Crime is a plague spot on Ireland, and I believe the Irish people desire its removal. It springs from secret societies and must be extirpated. The mainspring of crime is the expectation of immunity, which is only too well founded. The government has, therefore, concluded that it is necessary in those places where the ordinary law is not observed, that special tribunals, consisting of three judges, be appointed by the lord lieutenant to try cases without a jury. The judgment of the court must be unanimous. Appeal can be made to the Supreme Court, the judgment of the latter to be given by a majority of judges. The Supreme Court may diminish but cannot increase the severity of sentences. Parliament will be asked to provide special remuneration for special judges.

The bill also contains the following provisions:—It gives power to search for secret apparatus for murder, such as arms, threatening letters, &c.; power to enter houses by day or night, under warrant of the lord lieutenant; power to arrest persons prowling about at night and unable to give an account of themselves, who are to be dealt with summarily; power to arrest strangers, as crimes are generally committed by foreign emissaries; and power to remove foreigners who are considered dangerous to the peace. Secret societies are to be dealt with summarily and membership thereof will constitute an offence under this act. Cases of aggravated assault are to be treated in a summary manner. Power is given to repress intimidation and unlawful meetings, the latter to be dealt with summarily. Newspapers containing seditious and inflammatory matter are to be suppressed and the proprietors required to enter into recognizances not to repeat the offence. Justices can compel the attendance of witnesses about to abscond. The lord lieutenant can appoint additional police where necessary at the cost of districts where they occur. Outrages are to be dealt with summarily by courts, which are to consist of two stipendiary magistrates.

Washington Garfield Brooklyn Flynn is the name given a son just born to Captain Flynn, of the British ship Lorety, lately arrived at Brooklyn from Calcutta.

—A few weeks ago the sum of $130 mysteriously disappeared from Mr. George Denniston's store on Kinsley's wharf. It had been counted out for the purpose of deposit. The name of the thief remained a mystery until yesterday, when Officer Garnett while in Providence had a talk with a Newport lad named William Welch, who is confined at the Reform School for the theft of some watch cases, and learned that he was the guilty person. He squandered the money and had a general good time while it lasted.

—Mr. Frans T. Southwick, of this city, will give a select reading at Casino hall on Monday evening, when he will give the following excellent program:—The Lay of Horatius, Macaulay; King Robert of Sicily and the Bridge, by Longfellow; Instigation scene from Julius Cæsar; Jimmy Butler and the Owl; How He Saved St. Michael's, Stansbury; Our Guides in Genoa and Rome, Mark Twain. Mr. Southwick has received a good elocutionary education and is well fitted to give an entertaining and instructive evening's enjoyment to his listeners and should have a good audience.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHTS.

At the adjourned meeting of the City Council held last evening, the contract for furnishing the electric lights as presented by Mr. Moses Williams, agent of the New England Weston Company, and slightly modified by City Solicitor Peckham, was submitted to the council.

The company agree to supply not less than 30 arc lights of 2000 candle power according to the French standard of measurement, from July 1, 1882, to June 4, 1883, for lighting Bellevue avenue, Touro park, Washington square and Equality park; to keep the lights in running order; to reimburse the city for any loss that may be incurred by the lights; to change ten or less lights in November from Bellevue avenue to Thames street or such other place or places, as the committee on gas and lamps may select, without any additional expense to the city. The lamps are to burn all night for 22 nights in each month, the nights to be virtually selected by the city, the price for supplying the lights is to be 68 cents each per night, and any additional lamps to be placed at the same rate. The company will give a bond for the fulfilment of the contract. The city will permit the erection of poles and the running of wires by the company, but this is not to be construed to mean that the city claims or possesses the right to grant the use of the streets for the erection of poles and the running of wires. The committee on gas and lamps will select the positions for the light at once and the company will begin operations immediately.

SUPREME COURT—MARCH TERM.

FOURTEENTH DAY—AFTERNOON.

The court came in this afternoon at three o'clock; present Judge Matteson.

At 3.15 Mr. Peckham made his argument for the defendant in the case of Pawtucket Institute for Saving vs. Alexander Abbott et al., pending at the noon adjournment, closing at 4.20, when Mr. Sheffield, Sr., argued for plaintiff corporation until 5.20 when Judge Matteson ordered the court to be adjourned until Friday morning at nine o'clock.

FIFTEENTH DAY.

The court came in this morning at nine o'clock. Present Judge Matteson.

Immediately after the opening of the court Judge Matteson proceeded to charge the jury in the pending case above named, closing at 9.15 when the jury retired for consultation.

At ten o'clock this jury returned into court and rendered a verdict for defendant Abbott and found against Chase, one of the endorsed, in the sum of $1452. This clears Abbott entirely and pronounces that his signature which appears on the note was not his endorsement.

Soon after ten o'clock, William H. Durfee, indicted at this term, for making and uttering forged paper, was brought into court, and his counsel withdrew the motion for arrest of judgment, and the court then sentenced him upon the verdict of guilty found against him by the jury, to be imprisoned in the State Prison, at hard labor, for and during a term of six years from and after this date.

The case of John H. Stoddard appellant vs. Probate Court of Newport, a contested will case, was assigned as the first jury trial of the September term.

The case of Barry McGowan vs. Maria McKeon was assigned as the second jury trial of the September term.

The case of J. Manchester Haynes vs. Isaac Clarke, which was tried this term, the jury disagreeing, was assigned today for trial on the second Tuesday of the September term.

The case of Adoniram J. Bliss vs. LeRoy M. White, of Tiverton, was continued to the September term.

In the case of Edward W. Howland vs. Isaac W. Howland, of Little Compton, equity, the defendant has leave through his counsel, Mr. Sheffield, to file supplemental pleas.

In the divorce case of Hannah B. Manchester vs. George F. Manchester, of Little Compton, heard and held for advisement, the court today ordered and entered a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony between the parties on the sole cause of cruelty and gives custody of the son, a minor child, to Mrs. Manchester until further order of court, and the question of her alimony is still reserved by the court to await its further orders in the premises.

In the case of Charlotte C. Douglass, appellant, vs. Probate Court of Portsmouth, a suit for the removal of guardian, which had been discontinued by the appellant, was today ordered to be reinstated in pursuance of the prayer of the petitioners, reserving to the defendant the right to have the cause dismissed upon the appellees showing that the appellants are not aggrieved by such a decree.

At 10.30 the business of term being so far concluded, the court was adjourned to meet again according to law on the third Monday of September next.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

The Court of Common Pleas within and for the county of Newport, will meet on Monday next, the 15th inst. The grand jury will meet also on that day, and, as yet, there are but three complaints ready for their consideration.

The trial of Moses Grinnell indicted for a murder committed in Tiverton, and who has been so long in the jail in this county awaiting trial, will take place probably on Tuesday next.

The civil docket is small and the court will not probably sit more than a week, according to present appearances, although an adjourned session is among the possibilities.

The prisoners already sentenced will not be taken up until after the report of the grand jury and the trial of the criminal docket next week.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY NOTES.

ENTERTAINMENTS AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

President Arthur manages the elegant internal economy of the White House better than any President since Van Buren, it is said. His dinners are magnificent. Mr. Bancroft, who has dined with every crowned head in Europe, says that the dinner given to the Diplomatic Circle was the handsomest dinner he ever saw anywhere. Mr. Frelinghuysen, a good judge, says that silver, china, glass, service, napery, are all supremely fine. The President has secured Mrs. Astor's chef, who gives admiral dishes, and the hospitality of our chief is unbounded. He will not retire with $100,000! His champagne is pronounced unexceptionable.

THE PRESIDENT,

who works as hard as a day laborer at the public business, also works, as does the Prince of Wales, at pleasure. On the evening of April 27th he was engaged at a dinner until twelve midnight, when he went on board the Tallapoosa, in a driving rain, to go down to Fortress Monroe, to see the graduating exercises of the artillery school, to inspect the North Atlantic squadron, and to attend a ball given at the Hygeia Hotel. There was a gay company there. The steamers Tennessee, Vandalia, Kearsarge and Yantic lay at anchor a short distance out in the stream, with colors flying, a brilliant sight, and the weather cleared almost immediately as the President arrived. Indeed he has Queen Victoria's luck in weather. The scene as all the guns saluted the Tallapoosa from the forts and all the vessels in the harbor responded, was beyond all description thrilling and fine. I always wonder, as I feel the inspiring influence of such a scene, how the man who is the centre of it all, keeps his reason. But President Arthur stood on the hurricane deck, lifting his hat to each ship as he passed, and as the Tallapoosa sailed round the fleet, in full possession of his reason. Indeed there is a quiet dignity and calmness added on the President's manner, since he came into office, which is really admirable.

COLONEL ROCKWELL.

I was much struck with the soldierly appearance of Colonel Rockwell, the friend of Garfield, the only man now living who saw the two murdered Presidents die. He was so broken down by the death of his relative and friend, and the long watch of eighty days, that he thought of resigning his position as commissioner of public buildings, which includes also the duties of usher of the White House. He stands at the President's left hand, and presents everybody. He looks like one of De Neuville's fine French heroes, in his simple uniform. No one gives President Arthur greater praise than does Colonel Rockwell. He says the sincere respect paid to the memory of Garfield, the decent mourning and seclusion of the White House were so observed that it touched the hearts of Garfield's friends. He seems to be getting as much attached to Mr. Arthur as he was to Mr. Garfield, and is evidently one of those noble, single-hearted, brave and modest men himself whose friendship is the shield and defence of a great man. The proper sort of a "favorite" for a President to have.

THE CHARMING LADIES.

At the late notable gathering Mrs. Frelinghuysen and Mrs. Chandler helped the President to receive. The former has the sweetest dignity, and in her black dress gives an air of the utmost respectability to everything. Mrs. Chandler was Miss Lucy Hale, once so well-known in Washington, and the daughter of Hon. John P. Hale, of New Hampshire. The President does not bow. He extends his hand simply, with a pleasant word or two. He is the most perfectly unpretending individual in the world, and after spending two hours in receiving that glittering and splendid throng, he and Colonel Rockwell stepped out of line, and each joined ladies, taking them about for a promenade. The President took up the lovely Mrs. Don Cameron, a young beauty of the most delicate type, neither blonde nor brunette, but very nicely combining the charms of both. This young lady of twenty has married a gentleman whose daughters are older than she is, but her sweet and gentle dignity charms every one. She appears in the street with a Gainsborough hat and nodding plumes, like the beautiful Duchess of Devonshire. But in the evening she appears with a simple dress, low-necked and short-sleeved, looking very young, and wearing no jewels. Admirable prudence! Jewels will do for her twenty years hence. Altogether she is one of the most charming figures about Washington.

GILBERT STUART.

The above is the name by which the great American painter has been generally known, but his full name was Gilbert Charles Stuart. It has long been supposed that he was born in the city of Newport, R. I., in 1755. But while it is true that he first established himself in his profession in this country at Newport, he was born in Narragansett, R. I., in the year 1756, and indicating an aptness to fine art he received instructions from a Scottish painter named Alexander, by whom, when about 18 years of age, he was taken to Edinburgh. His master died soon after their arrival in that city, and Stuart worked his passage home before the mast, and began the practice of his chosen profession at Newport, R. I.

Mr. Stuart was not an historical nor genre painter. Indeed, it is not known by me that he ever made any serious attempt in the direction of either of these departments of painting. His specialty from first to last was portrait limning.

From Newport Mr. Stuart removed successively to Boston and New York, struggling in each place for higher attainment and encouragement in his profession. But the fire that was in him was not to be quenched; and he boldly set sail for London in 1778, where for two years he made little progress and suffered greatly from poverty. Becoming acquainted with his countryman Benjamin West—who was fast rising to the zenith as an historical painter, and subsequently became President of the Royal Academy—he received valuable assistance from him, and for several years was an inmate of his family.

About 1781 Mr. Stuart began practice in London on his own account, and soon rose to great eminence as a portrait painter, rivaling Sir Joshua Reynolds—West's predecessor as president of the Royal Academy—and the best English artists of the time. Subsequently he resided successively in Dublin and Paris, and constantly maintained a high reputation as an artist. In 1793 or 1794 he returned to his native country, residing chiefly, for several years, in Philadelphia and Washington. In the former city he painted a portrait of Washington, but, being dissatisfied, he destroyed the first picture; but at the second sitting he produced the well-known head from which he painted all his other portraits of Washington, and which has long been regarded as the standard likeness of the "Father of his country."

After Mr. Stuart's residence for several years in the city of Washington, he removed during the first decade of the present century to Boston, where he died in July, 1828. As a painter of heads he holds the first place among American artists, unless we except John Singleton Copley, and his flesh coloring rivals the finest modern efforts. While it is true that upon accessories he bestowed little labor, and that sometimes they are finished in a slovenly manner, yet it will be true that in delineation of the human face his keen vision, his dexterity in mixing his colors, and the peculiarity of what has been called his "loaded style" in laying them on—greatly augmenting the effect of light and shade—together with his masterly way of securing naturalness on the part of his sitters, constituted a tout ensemble of qualities rarely approached, if ever surpassed, by any artist of modern times.

It has been said that "Mr. Stuart was not only one of the first painters of his time, but was also a very extraordinary man out of his profession." This may be all true, but I have thought possibly he may have been confounded with a Scotch author of some note, whose name was Gilbert Stuart. Nevertheless, Mr. Stuart moved in the highest circles of society as a gentleman of the old school, of great conversational powers and mirthfulness.

My oldest brother having received an invitation to become a private tutor in a wealthy family in Lexington, Ky., left home in the year 1818 in company with Rev. Horace Holley, D. D., who had received the appointment of president of Transylvania University, and was on his way to the assumption of the duties of that office. After a very few years the family alluded to became embarrassed, and my brother received, in part payment for arrearages, an order for two copies of the portrait of Washington, drawn by some party who had a valid claim upon Mr. Stuart to the amount of several hundred dollars. Mr. S. had previously fixed his price for painting two copies of the head of General Washington at such a sum as would absorb the amount of his indebtedness to the party alluded to.

The order came by mail, with the request from my brother that it should be presented at once, as it was desirable that the portrait should be forwarded to Kentucky at as early a day as practicable—a sale of the paintings having already been effected. This request was complied with, the order accepted and the paintings commenced upon.

The great number of Mr. Stuart's orders, as well as other circumstances, tended to delay the entire execution of this new demand upon the time and talent of the great artist. I would not so betray the memory of the old gentleman as to indulge for a moment the belief that the idea that he was working out a back debt influenced him in the slightest degree to defer the completion of the pictures. At all events, there was great delay, which called for frequent visits to his studio by different members of my father's family.

At one of these interviews I was profoundly struck with the powers of Mr. Stuart's genius. I was then in my teens, but his figure and manners are so indelibly impressed upon my memory that more than fifty years have done but little towards effacing the vividness of the scene. Mr. Stuart then occupied a brick house in the block upon the north side of Washington place, Fort Hill, in Boston, the identical spot being almost unrecognizable on account of the great improvements of the last few years. The studio was in the front drawing-room, facing the pretty mall of those days. At least, he then occupied that room with its southern aspect, although I have supposed that it might have been only a temporary arrangement, as the back room might be supposed to have afforded a more desirable light for an artist.

I was bidden to Mr. Stuart's presence. There he stood, a rather rotund gentleman of the old school, with florid complexion, pallet in hand, working upon the portrait of a lady who was present. Lest my presence should be construed into an intrusion by the lady I instinctively receded toward the door I had just entered. "Come in, come in, my lad!" shouted the artist, in a stentorian voice, but with a most genial look of welcome. He was habited in a half-worn but respectable suit of black coat and knee breeches, long, black silk stockings and shoes. His shirt was frilled at the bosom, and the plaits were loaded with snuff, of which he made profuse application to his olfactories.

The brush used by Mr. Stuart on this occasion had a handle some two feet long, and his practice was to take hold of the extreme end. In applying it to the canvas, it was done with such an air of apparent carelessness that an observer would be led to suppose the result would be a daub unworthy of a common tavern sign painter. Now he would ask a question as to my mission, and then would apply a pinch of his cherished sternutatory. Now he would look at his sitter, and with some ludicrous anecdote extort a naturalness of expression from the lady, who, seemingly, was half provoked to anger on account of the apparent recklessness of the vivacious limner. Then he would snuff again, keeping up an incessant chat either with his lady patron or with me—at that time but a mere errand boy. And thus the visit was absorbed by this far-famed artist in chatting, snuffing, laughing and painting. And I have been often told in later years by those who were familiar with the subject of this brochure that this exhibition was but an epitome of the artist's every day life. He was a keen student of human nature, and, as previously intimated, one of the great secrets of his success lay in the fund of anecdotes with which his mind was stored, and the ingenuity with which they were adapted—usually successfully—to relax the muscles of his sitters' faces and give opportunity for a natural expression of the whole countenance.

I shall never forget my first visit to Gilbert Stewart's studio. It was one of the events of my life, and—seemingly to me—worthy to be recorded for the perusal of my kindred and friends, or any readers who take an interest in a sketchy portraiture of one of the greatest portrait painters the world has ever furnished.—[Correspondent of the Boston Journal.

This is told of the tact displayed by President Eliot of Harvard College:—At one time his students developed an unpleasant liking for sitting in large numbers upon the fence that surrounds the college yard. The President, not desiring such a thing to become a custom, was at a loss how best to break up this practice. At last, one evening, as he was walking along the sidewalk, and the students were sitting on the fence singing, etc., the President said: "Gentlemen, allow me to congratulate you on having adopted the Yale custom." He was never troubled afterward by students sitting on the fence.

THE COAL YIELD IN ENGLAND.

Sir Henry Bessemer makes estimates concerning the amount of coal extracted from mines in Great Britain during last year. The quantity taken out was 154,184,300 tons. To give a vivid idea of this yield, he declares that if this coal were formed into cylindrical columns fifty feet in diameter and five hundred feet in height, placed fifty feet apart, these columns would form a colonnade eighty-five miles and seven hundred and fifty yards long. This mass of coal would suffice to add another three hundred and forty-six miles to the length of the great wall of China. Nearly half a million of men are employed in this industry. The supply of coal in the mines will last at least one thousand years, it is thought, so there need be no anxiety at present. The more economical use of this fuel in manufacturing is likely to be brought about by inventions in the direction of generating gas for heating power, and similar expedients, which will further this economy.—[Boston Advertiser.

A REMINDER.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

An old friend of mine, who was chaplain of the Massachusetts regiment that had so hard a time in getting through Baltimore, writes as follows apropos of my sending him a copy of the News:—"You cannot have any idea how the title 'Newport News' always strikes me. I have in my collection of curiosities a piece of a historical tree that grew near "Newport News" (in Virginia)—a place not far from Yorktown. The tradition is, that under that tree Cornwallis, after his surrender, took his last breakfast previous to coming North as a prisoner of war. During the rebellion I was at Newport News; and the tree, much to the regret of those who knew its history, had been cut down, as being in the way of military operations. I cut a piece from the very heart of the tree, as a relic." C. B. TO C. T. B.

YACHTING NOTES.

It is reported in Boston yachting circles that Mr. F. M. Weld, Jr., of that city, has sold the schooner yacht Magic.

The keel schooner yacht Prospero has been sold by Mr. George H. B. Hill to Mr. F. W. Hinman, of New Haven. Mr. Hill owns the new schooner yacht Varuna, now being finished at the yard of her builder, Mr. Richard Palmer, of Noank, Conn. Mr. Hinman will be remembered as the gentleman who gave our Custom House authorities considerable trouble last summer in regard to the sloop yacht Winsome.

The Southampton correspondent of the London Field, April 29, says:—"The American centre-keel boat Gleam, belonging to Mr. Gower, was launched on Friday afternoon, April 21, from Fay's yard, Northam, and her owner was out in her in the evening, and again on Saturday afternoon, as she passed up by the the Town Quay, Royal pier, and around the cigar-shaped steam yacht Ross Winans, which is moored off Crackmore-head, and then down the river again as far as Hythe, where the Silver Spray schooner, also belonging to Mr. Gower, was lying. The Gleam has had her gaff lengthened and a new sail, but the latter was not bent when she was out on Saturday. The Silver Spray and Gleam sailed on Monday for Cowes."

The women in a party of Russian Jews who arrived at Castle Garden this week attracted a great deal of attention from the fact that they all wore wigs. The explanation of the circumstance is said to be this:—For generations past, when an orthodox maiden wedded, she had, prior to the marriage ceremony, to have all her hair cleanly shaven from her head, in order that her husband should see her in her least attractive form, so that in after years when the woman becomes old and decrepit she would not appear less loveable in the eyes of her husband than she did on the wedding day. Another given reason is that a woman whose head is cleanly shaven would not attract attention from other men.

Hon. Ben. Wood, brother of the late Fernando, was elected to represent the fifth district of New York in the present Congress, and this is the way he represents it:—On the tenth of January he made his first appearance in the House and was sworn in. He remained in Washington a little more than a week, went away, and has not since returned.

An English paper records the departure for New York of a party of forty young men, sons of gentlemen, on their way to Minnesota, where they are to be placed as pupils with American farmers. It is said this is the second party which has come to the United States for the same purpose.

There is a fresh alarm over the new Capitol at Albany, which has not only cost many millions more than was estimated and will require an expenditure of several millions more to complete, but has been constructed in such a faulty manner that some portions, notably the section occupied by the assembly chamber, are in a dangerous condition. Cracks and bulges in walls, ceilings and arches betray great weakness. A committee of exploration is endeavoring to discover the cause of the weakness.

Balzac was talking with a lady in Poland, when a young girl came into the room to pour out the tea. She was advancing toward him with a cup in her hand when the lady of the house remarked, "You were saying, M. Balzac—" At that moment the cup the young girl was holding dropped on the floor, and she clasped her hands, exclaiming, "Can it be the great M. de Balzac?" "For that one instant," writes Balzac, "I tasted the sweetness of fame!"

WEDNESDAY'S STORM.

Disastrous Effects on the New Foundland Coast.

Special Despatch to the Daily News.]

ST. JOHNS, N. F., May 12.—There was a great storm on Wednesday night on the New Foundland coast and there are great fears of disaster to the shipping. The whole mass of the Arctic ice has been driven southward over the Banks. No news from the country north of here has been received.

NEWS FROM IRELAND.

The Police Still in the Dark.

Special Despatch to the Daily News.]

LONDON, May 12.—A Dublin despatch to the London Times says that the police and the people are beginning to discredit the theory that Irish Americans had been imported to commit the murders. Some ribbon lodge is now thought to be implicated. A discharged soldier named Allen has been arrested in Dublin on suspicion.

Wall Street.

Special Despatch to the Daily News.]

NEW YORK, May 12.—Stocks opened weak 1/8 to 5/8 lower and speculation was dull for the first hour. At 11 o'clock there was a decline of 1/8 to 3/4 and after 11 speculation was dull and prices steady with a small fractional improvement on some stocks.

Weather Indications.

Special Despatch to the Daily News.]

WASHINGTON, May 12, 12.30 P. M.—For New England, cloudy or rainy weather, with easterly winds and stationary or lower temperature and barometer.

LOVE OF THE SUN IN CALIFORNIA.

The houses in San Francisco are well adapted to the climate. Thick walls of brick or stone would keep out the sunlight, which is what the Californian wants more than anything else. That is why every house is studded and embossed with bay windows until all semblance of architectural beauty is lost. Every bay window increases the capacity for sunlight and air, and makes the house so much the more pleasant and healthful. A house with bay windows always commands from $5 to $10 a month more than one of the same kind without them. Scientists say there is a certain actinic property in the sunlight here which is lacking at the East; so that a sun bath every day is one of the best preservers of health and strength. Certainly Californians have the Spanish-American love of the sun, which is shown in the rich olive complexions one sees in the majority of the children and many of the faces of women on the streets. The men would probably show the same features, but the tendency to shorten the time between drinks gives to a great many that glowing hue known as the "burning Moscow" complexion. In fact, if the truth must be told, there is an immense amount of liquor absorbed in the city.—[San Francisco Letter.

CO-EDUCATION.

The Detroit Free Press says:—"The shutting out of women from Harvard University, Yale College, and other prominent Eastern institutions for the instruction of youth is based on sound principles. Their officers say, and say truly, that if they should admit women, the object for which these institutions were originally established—the education of young men—would be perverted. The standard would have to be lowered, and the whole curriculum demoralized and modified. Nothing has yet been shown to prove that any kind of preparation can fit girls and young women for the course of study pursued at these institutions. Few, if any, of them can row. Then, how can any young woman ever compete with her male classmates in the base ball course? Then there is foot-ball. Young women attempting this course of study would fall behind the rest of the class in the very first game—we would say recitation. Women can go to Cornell and Michigan Universities because those institutions do not attempt nor dare to establish courses in these higher branches of scholarship. So long as they confine themselves merely to Greek, Latin, mathematics, English literature, physics, etc., they are just about fit for women. But the colleges which are abreast of the age, which of late have won more fame and attracted wide attention in boat-racing, foot-ball and base-ball have no use for women. Their admission, as we have said, either perverts the purpose for which these institutions are founded or lower the standard to the vulgar and old-fashioned pursuits of the classics, mathematics, and sciences. In short, women are unfit for the higher education in the Eastern colleges."

MISTAKE AT THE BARBER'S SHOP.

The man who goes into a barber's shop and gets out again without having something disagreeable happen to him is in big luck. Two gentlemen had a very painful experience in an establishment of a tonsorial artist at the West End yesterday. Both were elderly and gray, and one hadn't much hair anyway. The latter wanted his hair just trimmed, a little and then dyed. The former, whose hair though gray, is very long and thick, wanted it cut right down close to his head for the summer. They got into the chairs with their coats, vests and collars off, and had the cloths put around them. Just then, a young gentleman came in. He remarked that a lively dog fight was in progress around the corner. That set the barbers wild. They dashed out and away without a word of explanation. The two customers rushed to the window and banged their heads together in an effort to see the fight. But they couldn't. They couldn't go out, rigged as they were, so they went to cussing the barbers for running off. Then they got into the chairs again, and, by some mistake, they swapped chairs. In a moment the barbers returned breathless and excited and hastened to go to work. It sort of mesmerizes a man to have a barber monkey around him, and the two customers, affected by it, fell into a quiet doze and didn't wake up till they were finished. Then the old boy was to pay. The man with little hair found that little clipped down to nothing, and his head, freshly shampooed, looked like a billiard ball. The other man found his hair almost as long as ever, but dyed a disagreeable, brindle hue. The barbers hadn't noticed the change of chairs. But their attention was called to it by the thin haired man, who attacked them with a razor he grabbed up, while the other man went in to break the show cases. It was a delightful fight, and all four got considerably hurt before it was stopped. The thick-haired man kind of got over it, as he could have his hair cut, and two hours of vigorous shampooing that nearly wrenched his head off, got the obnoxious color out. But the other man had no such recourse, and as the weather was beastly cold he had to wear his head wrapped up in a silk handkerchief to keep it warm, and it made him look like a brigand with fearfully big ears; and everybody asked him what ailed him and he was nearly driven insane and would sue the barber for damages only that then everybody would hear of the joke, and it would cost him more for drinks than he could hope to get from the barber.—[Boston Post.

An accordeon factory at Long Island, N. Y., was destroyed by fire a few days ago. The police are looking for the incendiary. It is supposed the people want to present him with a valuable testimonial.—[Norristown Herald.

"What did you say the conductor's name was?" "Glass—Mr. Glass." "Oh, no!" "But it is." "Impossible—it can't be." "And why not, pray?" "Because, sir, Glass is a nonconductor." Deafening applause from the scientific passengers.—[Louisville Courier-Journal.

Angus McDonald, whose head was shot off his cap at the Battle of Waterloo—or whose cap was shot off the battle of Waterloo—or whose wattle was shot off his Baterloo at the head of his cap—Well, he's dead, anyhow, at the age of 106 years.—[Norristown Herald.

A Bellefonte boy stole his mother's canary bird, and sold it to a man who had just lost one, for $2, and the dead bird in exchange, and when his mother was overwhelmed with grief and gave it a tearful burial, he assisted her with the money jingling in his pockets. That boy will some day drift to New York and become a great financier.—[Philadelphia News.

The Newer Arithmetic:—A man ordered a ton of coal and received 1,800 pounds. How much more was due him, and how did he go to work to get it? A woman bought eleven yards of cloth and paid for it with butter, giving three pounds of butter for a yard. There was a stone weighing five pounds in the centre of the crock, and the dealer cheated her a yard and a half in measuring the cloth. Who was ahead on that trade, and how much? A farmer's wife has twenty-two hens. A preacher comes to stay over Sunday, and she cooks a neck-piece of corn-beef. How many hens has she left? A boy earns eighty cents a day and beats the old man out of his board at three dollars per week. How much will he have after the first grand aggregation of gigantic wonders leave town? Albert has nine marbles and Aaron steals four. How many are left? Aaron drops a dime from his pocket and Albert swallows it. What was Aaron's profit on the whole business? —[Detroit Free Press.

THE COTTON SWINDLE.

The Fall River News says:—The swindling operations of Greene & Co., of Columbus, Miss., appear to grow in extent, as reports are received from various places in New England, though the full amount to which Fall River is involved was stated yesterday at $60,000. In fact, this sum may be reduced by the arrival of some of the orders, as it is thought there is still a probability of receiving a small portion of the twelve hundred bales ordered through Greene, or his partners at Mobile, Peckham & Co.

Some of the marks given to the "flat" cotton are interesting and expressive of the grim humor of the scamp who has perpetrated the swindle. They were "Sin," "A li," and "Cut," when he skipped the country.

Boston parties, we learn, suffer much more severely than our own mills, and the amount of the swindles perpetrated upon them will aggregate, we understand, $170,000.

Winthrop Wrought-Iron Furnace!
Has been in use for the past seven years, and given entire satisfaction. I offer it to the public as the most desirable furnace on the market. Special attention is called to the new dust-flue damper and revertible flues, that are not found in the other wrought-iron furnaces. The dust-flue damper prevents escape of dust when shaking down; the revertible flues cause the flames to sweep the entire surface of the wrought-iron drum, thereby securing much greater radiation of heat, and consequently a great saving in fuel. Cost less to keep in repair than any other furnaces. Are powerful heaters, with moderate consumption of coal. I have sold over 70 in this city. Sold by

TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT.
The King of the Body is the brain; the stomach its main support; the nerves its messengers; the bowels, the kidneys and the pores its safeguards. Indigestion creates a violent revolt against these attaches of the regal organ, and to bring them back to their duty there is nothing like the regulating, purifying, invigorating, cooling operation of Tarrant's Seltzer Aperient. It renovates the system and restores to health both body and mind. Sold by all Druggists.

Boston, October 19, 1870.
R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1840, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise others to employ you.
Yours truly, GEORGE DRAPER.

JAMES H. HAMMETT.

The Salvator for Invalids and the Aged. An Incomparable Aliment for the Growth and Protection of Infants and Children. A Superior Nutritive in Continued Fevers, and a Reliable Remedial Agent in all Diseases of the Stomach and Intestines.

THIS justly celebrated Dietetic Preparation, is, in composition, principally the GLUTEN derived from the WHITE WINTER FLINT WHEAT CEREAL, a solid extract, the invention of an eminent Chemist. It has not only been highly recommended but certified to by a large number of Chemists and Physicians—representing a very high degree of medical science—as the SAFEST, MOST ACCEPTABLE AND RELIABLE FOOD FOR THE GROWTH AND PROTECTION OF INFANTS AND CHILDREN, and for Mothers lacking Sufficient Nourishment for their offspring.

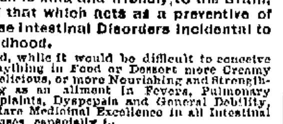

Unlike those preparations made from animal or vinous matter, which are liable to stimulate the brain and irritate the digestive organs, it embraces in its elementary composition—

That which makes strong Bone and Muscle. That which makes good Flesh and Blood. That which is easy of Digestion—never constipating. That which is kind and friendly to the Brain, and that which acts as a preventive of those Intestinal Disorders incidental to childhood.

And, while it would be difficult to conceive of anything in Food or Dessert more Creamy or Delicious, or more Nourishing and Strengthening as an aliment in Fevers, Pulmonary Complaints, Dyspepsia and General Debility, its Rare Medicinal Excellence in all Intestinal Diseases, especially in

Dysentery, Chronic Diarrhœa and Cholera Infantum,

HAS BEEN INCONTESTABLY PROVEN.

A SPRING DEFENCE.
How to Repel the Assaults of Ill Health—Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy Means Something for You.
The months of March, April and May are the three successive arches of a bridge which connects the season of ice and sleet with that of leaves and roses. No less in respect of health than of outward natural phenomena is this true. Spring is a trying season for invalids, and particularly for those who either suffer, or are liable to suffer, from Biliousness, Kidney Complaints and Constipation of the Bowels, and for women who are chronically subject to any of the long catalogue of physical ailments to which their delicate sex is heir. Indications of disease in spring should be heeded at once. A fatal attack may result from neglect or a disordered condition of the bowels. The ounce of prevention may be had where tons of cure—or attempted cure—may be unavailing. Are you vexed or troubled in spring with indigestion, torpid or disordered liver, want of appetite, constipation, or a feverish state of the skin? If so, take without an hour's unnecessary delay Dr. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. No medicine is so harmless and yet so quick and positive in its action. It is Nature's own idea, condensed and made tangible by human skill. Do not leave home when going upon a journey without a bottle of it in your valise. You cannot possibly put one dollar in any other shape where it can render you so essential service. The FAVORITE REMEDY is almost INSTANTANEOUS in its action, but does not tear you to pieces with its violence nor nauseate you with disgust. It frees the liver from Bile and sets the machinery of your body into normal and healthy operation. Remember: Dr. D. Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY. Ask your druggist for it and take nothing else. Price One Dollar a bottle.
